4 SOCIAL RECOMENDATIONS

Basque cuisine is known all over the world. Once here, you will understand why. In Bizkaia you can try traditional dishes, taste modern meals rewarded with a Michelin star, go after the latest trends in international cuisine or learn how to make Basque delicacies in a cooking workshop. We list several recommendations for eating in Bilbao pintxos or restaurants, so that you choose what best suits to your plan. And for dessert... the most famous pastry shops, cafeterias and ice cream parlors in the city.

PINTXOS IN BILBAO

Pintxos are a must in the whole Basque Country. These bite-size culinary treasures are deeply rooted in Basque culinary traditions. Here, they are not named “tapas”, are called Pintxos, and finding a bar full of them and having a hard time choosing which one you ask for is something you can start assuming right away. Some options would be:

The Casco Viejo (Old Town): throughout Bilbao’s Old Town there are establishments offering a wide range of pintxos, clustering in places like the Plaza Nueva, Calle del Perro or Somera. The most typical pintxos and portions include squid in batter, breaded mussels, mushrooms, cod, peppers and omelette. Highlights in the Plaza Nueva include Sorginzulo, with specialities like ham croquettes and anglerfish and prawns, and Gure Toki that serves black pudding with baby squid, cod in pil-pil sauce or Idiazabal cheese soup with mushrooms and quail egg. The historic Víctor Montes boasts a highly recommended bar groaning with the most traditional of pintxos. On the other side of the estuary in old Bilbao you’ll find the area around the Marzana dock, with several establishments where you can taste the finest pintxos.

Ledesma Street: it is another of the great classics to eat in Bilbao pintxos. Recommendation: Try the guilds (gildas) at Promenade Vermutería y Tapería, a small place with a terrace specializing in vermouth and guilds, these olives with anchovy and chilli a bit spicy.

Diputación Street: our recommendations are the following: La Viña del Ensanche, ham snacks, cazuelas and hot pintxos made at the moment. El Globo. It has several internationally awarded pintxos, and some of the most famous in Bilbao: Txangurro gratinado and cod gratinado.

GETTING AROUND BILBAO

The underground (Metro Bilbao) is one of the most efficient means of transport to get around Bilbao. It takes you to most tourist attractions and connects the city to Gran Bilbao on both the right and the left banks of the estuary. Bilbobus (city) and Bizkaibus (intercity) buses provide useful connections too, while the Euskotren rail lines take you to visit the region and the province of Gipuzkoa too. If you want to soak in the Bilbao cityscape, you should take the tram, leading to the top tourist attractions in town, like the Guggenheim Museum or the Arriaga Theatre.
